

The School of Music at Stephen F. Austin State University is committed to providing undergraduate and graduate curricula with a wide variety of musical experiences, designed to prepare students to confidently begin or continue careers in music education, performance and composition. Its goal is to graduate people who are highly competent musicians, accomplished performers, sensitive artists and articulate musical leaders who clearly understand the value and role of music as part of our cultural heritage and welfare and also as part of the very essence of human existence.

East Texas Honor Orchestra Nov. 17 & 18, 2006

Gene H. Moon, conductor

The East Texas Honor Orchestra (ETHO) is a regional orchestra offering advanced high school string students the opportunity to play in a full orchestra setting with winds and percussion from Stephen F. Austin State University School of Music. The two-day weekend clinic offers full orchestra rehearsals, sectionals and fun activities for players to make new friends.

The mission of ETHO is to provide a high caliber performance experience in a full orchestra setting. The goal is to nurture the continuing desire to learn classical music and the art of great orchestral playing. The ETHO embodies the tradition of professionalism and excellence in aspiration that the musician take those experiences and make in impact upon their respective programs.
